WALKER IN AHEARN INQUIRY

PUBLIC BUILDINGS SUPERIN-TENDENT UNDER FIRE.

Books of John Eagan, Who Sold Lumber for City Work, Apparently Altered-Investigators Say That Tydings's Name Was Substituted for That of Walker.

The Commissioners of Accounts who are Swestlgating Borough President Ahearn's office brought out evidence yesterday which in their opinion requires immediate explanation from Superintendent of Public Buildings William H. Walker.

Previous hearings have shown that most of the carpentering work in the public buildings was given to a man by the name of Thomas A. Tydings, who admitted that he was an apprentice of Mr. Walker. It was shown also that the rent of the premises he occupies at 49 Christopher street is paid by Mr. Walker. When Tdyings was on the stand in the early part of the week he said that he bought his lumber for the city work from John Eagan, a dealer, of West Twentyfourth street. He gave to the commission accounts of the value of the lumber he had bought from Eagan, but when Eagan himself was on the stand yesterday and told. of his transactions with Tydings it developed that the value of the material he had sold to the city was five or six times had bought. "Of course it is possible," Commissioner Mitchell said after yesterday's session, that the discrepancies in the figures can be accounted for, but this is a matter that we intend to sift to the bottom. Mr. Eagan had stated that he delivered lumber to the MARRIED. Eagan proved a halting and unsatisfactory witness and when he produced his books in response to an imperative demand by the commissioners they did not hesitate to insinuate that the books had been tampered with. Eagan was first called at the morning session and it was then found that he had not brought his books. He was ordered to fetch them and was present at the afternoon session with a set of ledgers. After examining them Mr. Mitchell asked Eagan flatly if erasures and changes had not been made in the books during the day. This was denied by Eagan, but Mr. Mitchell pointed out to him evidences of erasures in the books in response to an imperative deout to him evidences of erasures in the ledgers and of the difference in color in the ink used on the space where the era-sures had been made and of the other sures had been made and of the other entries.

"Nothing has been done to those books to-day," Eagan insisted. When he was asked how he accounted for the traces of erasures and the fact that new ink had been used, he replied: "I don't know if that is new ink; I wouldn't know if that writing was made five minutes ago or five years ago. Anyway, I have all kinds of colored inks in my office."

way. I have all kinds of colored inks in my office."

Mr. Mitchell sought to show that the name of Tydings had been put in the books in place of another name, and made no pretence of hiding his belief that "Tydings" had been written over "Walker" as late as yesterday morning. Mr. Mitchell tried in vain to get the witness to admit that supplies which had been originally charged up to Mr. Walker or to his son's firm of Walker Bros. and for which the city had presumably paid had been made to appear as supplies delivered to Tydings.

Finally Mr. Mitchel turned to the index of the ledgers and there he found under the heading of "W" the name of Thomas A. Tydings. Eagan was unable to explain why Tydings did not appear under "T." When it was further pointed out to him that the page of the Walker account in the ledger was the same number as that which appeared opposite the Tydings name in the index he dismissed it with the remark, "Oh, that's just a remarkable coincidence, that is all."

It is the intention of the commissioners

the index he of the commissioners to go to the bottom of all the lumber transactions made for the city by Mr. Walker. The commissioners intimated yesterday that they are already convinced that Tydings was merely a dummy for Mr. Walker and that the contracts for city work ostensibly given to him and to Boyce and Lynch, another firm with whom Mr. Walker had been shown to have close association, were really contracted by Mr. Walker to himself.

Board of Estimate Takes Mr. Jerome Up and Acts in a Hurry.

Perhaps because of the threat made by District Attorney Jerome to the Board of Estimate that he would put the Grand Jury on their track unless they took some immediate action on the new Court House, Mayor McClellan and his colleagues on the board yesterday rejected the proposal made by the Court House Commission to place the new building on Union Square.

President McGowan of the Board of Aldermen, who was the chairman of the committee named to pass upon the recommendation, said that his committee had prepared its report as long ago as March 21, but that it had been held back at the express request of some of the Justices of the Supreme Court. Mr. McGowan then read the report, which says:

The site at Union Square, recommended by the Court House board, would, in the judgment of your committee, cost much more than the nine millions estimated, and this expensive site, with the building suggested, would exceed in cost, your committee thinks, more than $20,000,000. Your committee is of the opinion that, admitting the necessty for a new court house, nevertheless the expenditure of such a large sum be a very extravagant undertaking, considering that public improvements of great mignitude are under way and others con-trolman, but Got Money for Four Months. Estelle P. Mills, wife of Policeman William P. Mills of the Oak street station, was arraigned before Magistrate Breen in the Tombs police court yesterday charged with petit larceny. Mrs. Mills was the widow of Policeman Joseph Mayer, who died five years ago, when she was married last October to her present husband. As Mayer's widow she was entitled to $20 a month from the police pension fund.

Commissioner Bingham got an anony-mous note in a woman's handwriting last week telling him that thhough she had taken a second husband Mrs. Mills was still drawing her pension. The Commissione found that she had received four months pe sion since her second marriage. He then had her hueband, Policeman Mills, fined one day's pay for out reporting his marriage, as the rules of the department provided, and had the wife arrested

$2,000 FOR BREACH OF PROMISE. Operatic Singer Sues a Wealthy Resident of Amsterdam, N. Y.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., May 10.-In the Supreme Court this afternoon, Justice Van Kirk presiding, a jury rendered a verdict of $2,000, after being out three hours, in the breach of promise action brought by Miss Nellie O'Reilly of Philadelphia against Dennis Sweeney, a wealthy resident of Amsterdam. The case was resident of Amsterdam. The case was put on trial yesterday afternoon. The amount Miss O'Reilly wished to recover was $25,000. The plaintiff is an operatic singer and she testified that Mr. Sweeney first became enamoured of her singing at Atlantic City on February 22, 1902, and that there, on March 10 following, proposed. The following fall she came to Amsterdam, where Mr. Sweeney repeated his proposal time and time again, remarking upon one occasion as he was showing her his real estate: "It will all be yours." Something like fifty letters written by Miss O'Reilly to Mr. Sweeney were introduced in evidence. Previous to her beginning this action Mr. Sweeney was married to Miss Emma Mason of this city. He alleged that the plaintiff forced her attentions upon him and that at no time during their acquaintance did he ask her to become his wife, nor did he intend to do so. He says that Miss O'Reilly visited Amsterdam of her own volition and her appearance here was very displeasing to him appearance here was very displeasing to salaries. In reality it appears to me to do nothing of the kind. It is class legislation pure and simple, favoring women in certain grades and not in others. It provides that where men and women are both employed ander any particular schedule there shall be no discrimination in the salary on account of the sex of the incumbent. Now what is the result of such a provision? In those schedules where men are employed the salaries of all women teachers are automatically raised to the same amounts as those of the men, but in those grades where there are no men the salaries remain unchanged. Now in the sizteen grades of public school teachers from 1A to 8B inclusive there are, in rough numbers, 12,000 women teachers and about 1,000 men. Of the women about 6,500 are serving in the first eight grades, that is, from 1A to 4B, inclusive; about 4,000 in the next four grades, from 5A to 6B, inclusive; and about 1,500 from 7A to 8B, inclusive; while of the men there are, or shortly will be, none in the first eight grades, about 500 in the next four and about 500 in the last four.

According to the provisions of this law, therefore, the salaries of the 5,000 women serving in those schedules. In fact the incre-ments now allowed them by law may have to be materially reduced in case the annual ap-propriation is found insufficient to meet all the demands that this proposed law places upon it. On the other hand, the salaries of those 5,000 women teachers in the four grades from 5A to 6B are to be largely increase ply because they are lucky enough to be assigned to a grade in which a few men are also serving. Is this a fair enforcement of the doctrine of equal pay for equal work? It would scarcely seem so. As a matter of fact, there is no difference between the work of a teacher in any of the eight grades between 1A and 4B, inclusive, and of one in the four grades immediately above, that is, from 5A to 6B, inclusive. They may have both taught an equal number of years in the public schools and rendered equally efficient service. Why should one be discriminated against in favor Hospital Removal Bill Vetoed. Mayor McClellan disapproved yesterday of the bill which was passed by the Legislature to prevent the rushing of dying patients from the different hospitals of the city to Bellevue. Mayor McClellan vetoed yesterday the bill passed by the Legislature equalizing the salaries of men and women teachers in the higher grades of the public schools In a memorandum the Mayor frankly admitted that it had not been an easy task for him to reach a decision and then explained that in his judgment it was his duty to reject the bill on these four grounds:

First-That the bill violates the principle f home rule, in that it is mandatory and places an enormous expense on the taxpayers of the city.
Second—That the local authorities have already the unquestioned power to perform the very acts which this bill attempts to force Third-That this bill discriminates in favor of a certain class of women teachers, in that it ractically directs extraordinary increases for women teachers in some grades, but possible reduction of those in others, and that therefore there is no force in the argument that it provides equal pay for equal work. Fourth—That it would destroy the elaicity of the present school system and would
